Special Events

A special event can be any number of different things and prices can be negotiated based on each individual event. In general, I will come to your event (an example is the Race for the Cure, which is a public fundraiser for breast cancer research), stay for the entire event, take as many photos as possible, and charge based on the amount of time spent. You may then review the photos on my website and order prints from there. OR, I can give individuals CD's of the event. Again, prices will vary depending on the event.
